1.6.529

a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant

Theodore Cottingham November 30, 2008 about 2 PM

Voice file 081130_002

www.NewCovenant.me

1. It's a new day in your life mine -- for mine is yours now, no separate apartness again. I love you all to recognize me and realize what I am saying and said has been, over these last six, almost six years that I have given you these words, and now coming into the fruition of me most holy, all shall be, recognized in me my words that are my words. Mine my words and love them and love me not as a flesh man, but just love all my body who are me, and I am no one, not; I am everyone who has ever lived, am I not? I Am!
2. And I love you all to be so holy, knowledgeable, and beget-full of me, and being full of me come unto me and know my words and thee thine this day art the new one -- called of me and appointed -- all of you are!
3. And I love you all to be mine this day and mind my mind; mining your mind, not; minding your mind, not; but minding your mind with mine that mine is, and truly yours, we shall be the one I am is, and not apart any longer. I love you all.

4. Glorious days ahead and my head is established one on your shoulders is I am complete and my day now known all this is the eighth day and getting better all the time, for knowing my way's me, and my paths are all laid out before you, and mapping me all you will.

5. I adore you all and I love you more and more. Is that possible? For me to love you more and more, even more than this?

6. I've given thee The Way to come into me and be made whole. Wait not for another. Be I am here. Amen.

7. Loving you all, this is Theodore Cottingham November 30 about 2:39 PM as I drive in Big Red headed to the coffeeshop to post some more words to give you me. Loving all I do, you be all I am is and all us one will be forevermore in one field known and home, and non-bearing ones, not; but bearing the greatest of these now; with ease, not always; but with tenacity of flesh, not; but with the word I am, I am made whole.

8. My campus replete is yours for to replete beyond temples made with hands, to be the holy I am forevermore far and beyond. Beneath the maddening crowd no longer, but above it all -- I am, in love with you all.
Amen